GOLF BALL CAN'T BE CONTROLLED BY COURT, JUDGE HOLDS

Country Club District Resident Exhibits 51 From Lawn,

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 17.—A Louisville court held yesterday the law hasn't any more control over a golf slice than the golfer. H. H. Gerling, lumber manufa turer, exhibited 51 golf balls in Cir-cuit Judge Churchill Humphrey's court, saying they were picked up on his lawn since May and he wanted it stopped.

Gering asked for an injunction to prevent the members of the Audubon Country Club from the use of No. 4 tee. His property lies about 225 yards from the tee. The manufacturer said the balls "whizzed" by his ears as he cut grass and were a source of con-tinual annoyance to his household. Judge Humphrey enjoined mem-bers of the club from going on to Gering's grounds to get sliced balls. The Judge held, however, that a court couldn't control the "personal" conduct of a golf ball by "judicial feat" and it was content to let the "law of gravity take precedence over the law of man."

Requirements Announced for Students' Acceptance for Classes
Starting Sept. 6.

Qualifications for enrollment in the Junior College classes approved by the Board of Education in its June meeting were announced today by Superintendent of Instruction Henry J. Gerling.

The classes, opening Sept. 6, will be conducted in Harris Teachers' College, 1517 South Theresa avenue, for white students, and in Stowe Teachers' College, 4318 St. Louis avenue, for Negro students.

Only students who have placed scholastically in the upper two-third of the graduating classes of St. Louis high schools will be eligible for enrollment, Superintendent Gerling said. The colleges will be open only to residents of St. Louis.

No fees will be charged, and students will not be required to buy books. Provision has been made for about 300 students at each State Supreme Court Upholds Demurrer in Behalf of Leo Biedermann.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 17.-The Missouri Supreme Court today upheld a Circuit Court action sus-taining a demurrer filed in behalf man charged with perjury in salifying as a juror for the trial of another professional bondsman.

The Supreme Court held the perjury indictment was technically defective in that it did not state that Bicdermann's oath as a juror was administered by a deputy circuit clerk who had legal authority to perform that function. The indictment was returned by a grand jury under the guidance of Circuit Aftorney Franklin Miller.

The action which the indictment alleged to be perjury was that Bicdermann made no response when members of the jury panel were asked if they knew the defendant, Sam Goffstein, or his attorney, the late Verne Lacy, al-ternant, Sam Golfstein, or his at-torney, the late Verne Lacy, al-though he was in fact acquainted with both Goffstein and Lacy.

As a juror Biedermann brought about a mistrial by voting for ac-quittal, although the other 11 members voted for Goffstein's convic-tion. At a subsequent trial Goff-stein was convicted and sentenced to three years in prison. Goffstein's conviction upheld by the Supreme Court and he began serving his sentence last month. He was convicted of re-ceiving 18 stolen automobile batteries from a Negro who offered them in payment of Goffstein's fee for a bail bond.

His second conviction, in dence was not sufficient to sustain a finding that the hotel fire was of incendiary origin.

In disposing of this objection, the Commissioner, after reviewing the evidence, rules that the facts and circumstances all point to a reasonable inference that the hotel was read to the jury. The defense had attempted to introduce medical testimony that the witness in questions. tion was insane when she testified

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont., Aug. 17.-Planes and fishing vessels joined in a search today for the body of 21-year-old Daniel Dodge, heir to a Michigan motor fortune, who was drowned Monday night after being maimed in a dynamite

Privately chartered planes as well as Dodge's own amphibian flew over the channel, the pilots hoping to sight his body.

The search was spurred by Dodge's step-father, Alfred G. Wil-sen of Detroit, who offered a $1000 son of Detroit, who offered a $1000 reward for recovery of the body. It extended several miles around the spot, eight miles west of this Manitoulin Island port, where Dodge sank.

The dynamite explosion, a result of Dodge's curiosity concerning some old explosives at his summer camp at Kagawong, seriously injured him as well as his bride of 12 days and Lloyd Bryant, camp caretaker.

caretaker.
Suffering from a serious head injury, Mrs. Dodge was said to be "considerably improved" last night. Attending surgeons said she and Bryant, who suffered internal injuries, probably would recover.
Frank Valiquette, another caretaker, was released from the hospital after being treated for minor injuries.

Senator's Associate in Getting Marble Leases Contradicts Aid's Testimony at Hearing.

By the Associated Press.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 17.—

W. H. Ford of Norwood, O., testified yesterday that Collins told him "there would be an early settlement with the TVA very soon; that Dr. A. E. Morgan would soon be out and that Berry could handle Lilienthal and Lilienthal could handle H. A. Morgan . ."

Ford said he "assumed" Collins got his information from Senator Berry. His references were to Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, ousted TVA chairman, and TVA Directors David S. Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan.

Associates in Lease Buying.
Ford, who was associated with Collins and Berry in the purchase of mineral and marble leases in the Norris Dam area, had quoted Collins as saying "Berry could make a settlement, but that he (Collins) would not let him because it would ruin Maj. Berry and also the President just before election."
Fred Manley, Knoxville engineer, denied today he wrote Ford in 1933 that Senator Berry expected to get a settlement with the TVA of damages to marble and mineral holdings.

Manley, engineer and architect representing the Berry interests, told the committee that when he wrote Ford, saying Berry expected

Manley underwent a vigorous cross-examination on why he wrote unsigned letters to Ford regarding the T V A and urged Ford to return them to him.

Committee Counsel Francis Biddle.
"I just forgot," the witness re-

The engineer said he persuaded Collins to buy a half interest in Ford's holdings for $1000, payable $20 weekly.

"You wrote Ford to get J. W. Cooper of Knoxville, head of the TVA land acquisition department, to admit he said in a speech at La Follette, Tenn., in 1933 at a meeting of landowners his appointment was or landowners his appointment was due to Representative J. Will Tay-lor (Rep.), Tennessee," Biddle said. "Why did you tell him that?" Manley said Dr. Arthur E. Mor-gan, ousted T V A chairman, had said in a speech there was "no polities" in T V A, "so this was convenient to remember—it possibly could be used."

Condition of Sale. Manley said Collins agreed to buy Ford's interest in the leases con-tingent on the worth of the land and whether the leases were as val-uable as Ford nad said. Representative Charles Wolverton (Rep.), New Jersey, asked why this was not put in writing. "There was no use until we saw what we had," Manley said. "What was there to see if it was worth $1000?" Wolverton queried. "Any 15,000-acre block is worth $1000," the witness said. "You

"Then why were they unsigned?"
"I didn't know I did not sign them. I can't uncerstand it."

Warrant for Ex-Convict Follows
Arrest in Sale of Bonds Stolen With Auto.
A warrant charging Edward LaPage, owner of a tavern at 4863
Easton avenue, with receiving stolenges of the stolenges o en property, was issued yesterday by Assistant and Acting Circuit At-torney John L. Sullivan, following LaPage's arrest in connection with the sale of two $1000 bonds. The bonds were in an automobile owned by Julius A. Seidel, 911 Goodfellow avenue, when it was stolen last February, but their loss was not reported immediately, as Seidel supposed the bonds were in a safe deposit box.

The bonds had been sold through a St. Louis bank to a brokerage company here. Bank officers named a man from whom they had ob-tained the bonds. Questioned by police, the man said he was act-

Seidel's automobile, 70 shares of stock of the Seidel Lumber Co., and a third $1000 bond have not been recovered. Seidel is vice-president and treasurer of the lumber firm. LaPage is an ex-convict, having been sentenced to a three-year term in the State prison at Jefferson City in 1928 for robbery

Plaintiff Alleges Wilson Elliott Was Subject to Influence of

His Son. Suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Eliza Mary Elliott, a minor, to set aside the will of her grandfather, Wilson Elliott, who died a year ago leaving property appraised at $35,417. His will beeathed $500 to the petitioner and a like sum to another granddaugh-ter, Peggy Joe Elliott. The rest of the estate was left to William El-liott of Dallas, Tex., a son.

The suit alleges that the elder Elliott did not possess legal mental capacity to make a will at the time the document was drawn and that he was subject to the influence of his son. He resided at 5715 Mc-Pherson avenue.

The plaintiff is represented in the suit by her mother, Mrs. Katheryr Elliott, widow of George M. Elliott. The Mississippi Valley Trust Co. and Leroy J. Mills, as co-executors are named as co-defendants in the action with William Elliott.

DAVIS BEATS CUBS AFTER CARDS LOSE

The Cardinals ended a 22-game road campaign yesterday in Chicago by splitting a doubleheader with the Cubs. Playing between rain Top-seeded Alice Marble of 1 drops for six hours, the Redbirds won the second contest, 5 to 2, behind the pitching of Curt Davis, after the men of Gabby Hartnett took the opener in 11 innings, 5 to 4. It was a great day for those who have an ambition to hit the ball a long way but seldom do. Not only did Lynn Myers hit his first homer of the season, but Terry Moore got carry-over from yesterday's third cap for his ninth victory against five defeats, and the Cardinals had Larry French out of the way in the early innings and were never behind.

One thing is certain: Rain cannot interfere with the festivities as it did last Wednesday night at the Polo Grounds, when Promoter Mike Jacobs swallowed a $10,000 installation loss and hoped he could get it back indoors.

The postponement has not affected the betting odds. The men with talking money still are offering up to 3 to 1 that Armstrong leaves the ring the holder of the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight championships, the first triple-plated crown wearer in boxing history. Contract Concerning Title.

A loud minority, however, is convinced that the up-state Italian will out-leg and out-punch the phenomenal little Negro and retain his ive victories. If Ambers should win, he will no be recognized as the welterweight champion in New York State. The commission pulled the rival managers and Promoter Jacobs in on the carpet yesterday and made them sign an amendment to the original contract, stipulating that "no title except the lightweight is at stake" Regardless of that, Ambers will, of course, claim the 147-pound throne if he wins, and there will be widespread confusion, because the National Boxing Association has served advance notice that it will ecognize his claim. Nothing of moment has happene to either fighter since they weighed in a week ago, Ambers at 135 and Armstrong at 1331/4. The respite however, gave a cut at the side of Armstrong's mouth a chance t title, disrupting Armstrong's run of Player-Managers.

Gabby Hartnett and Joe Cronin are the only player-managers remaining in the major league picture, unless you care to include Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox, who has appeared infrequently in games this season. Hartnett, who succeeded Charley Grimm as leader of the Cubs, is ching the non-playing age and Cronin is a veteran of the baseball wars.

The pendulum of owner opinion swings back and forth on the question of whether a player or a bench manager can do a better job. Back in 1924 Bucky Harris, as boy-leader of the Washington Senators, led his club to a pennant and world championship and made the other club owners player-manager conscious.

Rogers Hornsby relieved Branch Rickey in 1925 and helped the cause of the player-manager no little by leading the Cardinals to National League at one time there were five player-managers -Traynor at Pittsburgh, Terry at New York, Grimm at Chicago, Philadelphia,

Now Grimm has been relieved and Frisch, Traynor, Terry and Wilson have taken themselves off the active list and are managing from the bench. Dykes undoub edly will take similar action before the 1939 season, which will leave only Hartnett and Cronin active player.

Incidentally, Terry, Frisch and Traynor each assumed a definite handicap when they retired to the bench, for in making the shift, they weakened their clubs. The Giants would be stronger if they had Bill Terry back at first base; the Pirates frequently have longed for another Traynor at third base and the Cardinals would be higher if they still had the old agile Frisch at second. Cardinal Prospects.

Ed Staples, director of information for the Cardinals, was asked to list the most promising Cardinal recruits, youngsters likely to be tried this fall, if their certain to be inspected next spring, barring unexpected

Without trying to make the list complete, Staples named five pitchers, three infielders, two outfielders and only one catcher. The pitchers are Ken Raffensberger, Morton Cooper, Paul Dean, Tom Sunkel and Jim Winford, and Sam Narron is the lone catcher to attract attention. Joe Orengo, Frank Crespi and Maurice Sturdy are named as the most promising infielders, and Harold Epps and Louis Vezilich as the fly-chasers with the best chance of catching Manager Frisch's eye next spring.

Cooper, according to Staples, might be considered the prize recruit of the year. Recently he developed a sore arm and became involved in a controversy with the club, but that undoubtedly will be disposed of by next spring. Cooper has won 13 and lost nine for Houston and in 179 innings has yielded 151 hits and struck out 189 men, a better strikeout record for the number of games than Dizzy Dean had when Jerome was startling the Texas League.

Faster Than Deans.

Cooper has been considered a fine prospect for several years. At recent training camps he was de-scribed as the "fastest" pitcher in the Cardinal organization, and that was when the Deans were on the roster. He has the speed and enough of a curve, but club observers decided that he needed experience and that most important of pitching assets, control. He is 24 years old.

Raffensberger is a 21-year-old left-hander, playing his second year of professional ball. He has won 13 and lost five, allowing 113 hits in 138 innings.
Sunkel is the same "Good Old

Tom" Sunkel who was called to the rescue of the Cardinals in the fall of 1937. He is a hard-working left-hander with plenty of heart and and plenty of stuff. He has won 15 and lost only five this season, yielding 153 hits in 176 innings.

Under the circumstances his pracents objected to the long his parents objected to the long trip to Canada, in fact they for-bade it. At the last minute, however, they told him to go ahead if he wished, and he did.

Adams has been playing golf 15 years, since he was six years of age. Born at Skidmore, he moved early in life to Tarkio and it was there that he first played the game. At that time his companion and instructor was his father, E. R. Adams, now Assistant State Super-intendent of Schools. He continued his playing after his family moved to Chillicothe. Any improvement in his play has been the result of observing other players or through some few "tips" given him by pro-fessionals with whom he competed

He has competed in this tournament three times, winning medalist honors last year and taking third place this year, but he never was able to win. His only tournament title, except the Canadian, came in 1935 when he laced first in the Northeast Nebraska open. He has "come close" several times. South Ends Beat St. Charles, 12-11

Phil Kavanaugh's South End semi-pro baseball team evened the score with Manager Les Blackmeyer's St. Charles Browns, avenging a previous defeat at the hands of a previous defeat at the hands of the Trolley League leaders, when they pushed over three tallies in the last half of the ninth to win, 12-11, last night at South End Park. First Baseman Harold McCoy of the South Ends was the hero of the game when he singled for his fourth hit of the game in the ninth with the bases loaded and one away. His hit scored Garnero and Saussele who had walked to open the inning, with the tying runs. McCoy then scored the winning marker. After Dobernic walked, again filling the bases, Haefler, right fielder, hit into an attempted double play, but the relay from Catcher Boehmer hit Haefler on his way to first, and McCoy crossed the plate.

WICHITA, Kan., Aug. 17.—Beeler's homer in the eighth with Cromer on base gave Brazil, Ind., a 4-to-2 victory over Baltimore, Md., in the National Semipro baseball tournament early today.

The game, running past midnight, was a hurling duel between Tony Simms, Brazil, whose change of pace kept the Easterners well in hand, and June Greene, who held the Indiana team hitless until Stack tripled to open the fifth.

Two big innings gave Trenton N. J., a 7-to-4 victory over Shawnee, Ok., in a first-round game. Trenton batters were paced by Kotz, catcher, with a double and a single, Ott, centerfielder, with a double and a single, Ott, centerfielder, with a double, and Vallis, second baseman, who hit two singles.

Heavy hitting marked most daylight games in the tourney yesterday, beginning with a 2-to-1 victory by Youngstown, O., over Forge Yillage, Mass., with both teams playing errorless ball and dividing 15 safe blows.

Barrington, N. H., trailed Flagstaff, Ariz., 5 to 1 in the fifth, but from that point barraged three hurlers with base hits to emerge with a 10-to-6 win.

OUT, KILLS MAN

Thomas E. Fuller, Foster Son of Flat Owners, Shot by Jobless Mechanic at East St. Louis.

Thomas E. Fuller, 33 years old, a retired navy enlisted man, was shot and killed on the back porch of his home, 1108 Market avenue, East St. Louis, at 5:30 p. m. yesterday by Thomas Shellenberg, upstairs tenant, who was moving out following a row over unpaid rent.

Shellenberg, 33, an unemployed mechanic, handed over his automatic shotgun to policemen and told them he fired at Fuller when the former sailor rushed at him. Fuller beat him severely two weeks ago, Shellenberg said, and he explained that he intended shooting Fuller in the arm to halt his rush.

The charge entered Fuller's heart.
Fuller, retired on pension after 16 years' service in the navy, made his home with his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Coates, who own the Market avenue flat. Shelown the Market avenue list. Shellenberg, who lived upstairs with his wife and two children, is a nephew of Mrs. Coates. The quarrel over unpaid rent began Aug. 3 when Shellenberg, picked up drunk near his home, told police he had been beaten and dragged out of the bouse better and dragged out of the house by Fuller. Shellenberg told police and reporters that Fuller sub-sequently remarked, "The next time I'll kill you; you better get some ent money."

Unable to raise the $35 rent he owed, Shellenberg found other quar-ters across the street and was pre-paring to move yesterday when Fuller again threatened him, he

"I got my shotgun, put in a couple of shells and went to the back porch," Shellenberg related in a signed statement. "I called in to Fuller, Well, Tom, I'm ready to move; I'm going to get my furni-ture out," the statement continued.
"He came running through the house and either grabbed or knocked something off the icebox. When he opened the screen door I fired, I I did not intend to kill him."

Shellenberg waited for police to arrive and showed them where he had placed his shotgun in the up-stairs flat. Mrs. Shellenberg was across the street at their new quarters at the time. Mrs. Coates told police that Shellenberg had been drinking. Shellenberg, held for the Coroner, appeared to have difficulty in hearing and explained that his ear drum was injured when Fuller beat and kicked him two weeks ago.

Fuller, who was divorced, was the father of two children who live with their mother in Washington, D. C. He was attached to the navy recruiting station in St. Louis al six years ago.

A PLEA FOR WORLD PEACE.

The radio audience that listened to Secretary of State Cordell Hull last night heard a thoughtful discussion of international relations and the foreign policy of the United States. The address was a sermon rather than a speech. It was a dispassionate but moving plea for peace. Spoken in any language hy any responsible Minister, it would appeal deeply to any people. It was a picture of the secure, well-ordered life, under the processes of civilization, but it was more than that. The speaker undertook explicitly to show how this consummation so devoutly to be wished may be attained.

The realities were frankly faced. The issue con- and unemployment insurance fronting the nations today was clearly defined. "Is the future of the world to be determined by universal evident in the fact that those without protection reliance upon armed force and frequent resort to ag- are those who need it most. PARTY GRATITUDE VS. GOOD GOVERNMENT.

We print today under the cartoon part of an address by the always-refreshing Mayor LaGuardia of New York City, who has introduced new standards shirts, looking like they were all stripped of wholesomeness, efficiency, humanity and political independence in a city which for generations has suffered the greed and corruption of Tammany Hall.

What he says about the impossibility of making had ever got into. Maybe he wouldn't good government compatible with party gratitude is of particular interest. At 9:30 that night, they were put out of the car and left bound in a field near Minneapolis, after a wild 600-mile ride with their captors. And Monday night, the two criminals were arrested by Federal officers, aided by lo-to look after the safety, the health and the comfort of the people who live in the city. Felix Adler, in his "Ethical Philosophy of Life," points to the difference between pub-expression and public reason. The politician follows public opinion, and the statesman can discern what is the public will and public reason, and follow that, and out of that, what is the public good. And that is not so easy, as he explains in the chapter on the state.

What is the public good? There the executive has to make decisions, or he must guess. If he guesses right, it will result, even if not at once, in the benefit of the people; if he guesses wrong, the bad result may not be seen immediately, but it will come. It is very often easier for your executive to do the wrong thing, because it is popular at the moment, than to do the right thing, knowing it is right, that eventually it will come out all right, though it is very

Now when I say that you cannot be a good Mayor and a good fellow, that you cannot administer your city properly and be good to politicians, I mean just that.

A political party cannot produce a Bob Moses (Park Commissioner) or a Dr. Goldwater (Commissioner of Hospitals). Politicians never could. They ask you to do something that you are not going to do, and do

So in the selection of a cabinet, the heads of the city departments, under the formula we have adopted, we have sought men who had special knowledge and experience in the field of the particular department which they were to head.

Progress is not as fast as some would like to have it. I am very fortunate in being a very calm, cool sort of person. There are times when there are real discouragements; but you see ideas being formulated, you see plans developed into structures. You see this or that organization coming out to help, and able men and women devoting themselves to the public service, and sometimes you really think perhaps we might find a public good.

Mayor LaGuardia on City Government

New York executive confesses "base ingratitude" to people who helped him win office, in sense that he refused to play game of spoils politics; viewing municipality's duty as looking after safety, health and comfort of citizens, he chose aids on basis of merit alone; thinks era of corrupt city rule is passing as voters grow enlightened.

From an Address by Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York City, Before the New York Society for Ethical Culture.

HERE is something new in the kind of government I have been giving the peo-ple of the City of New York in the past four years. We call it, for the purpose of being easily identified, a non-partisan, nonpolitical municipal government. We chose that phrase because the idea of partisan politics was so deeply rooted in American cities that that phrase perhaps brings out easier for mass understanding all the things we are trying to do.

The tradition of government in American cities is bad. Without exception, for many years, the commonwealth over, for a generation or two, city governments were under the complete control of politicians, vicious politicians, and the institution known as the city boss. James Bryce, in his "American Commonwealth," pointed out that the government of American cities was a spectacle of conspicuous failure. The reason for that is easily found: there is always greater public interest in a national expression. lic interest in a national government than there is in a local government. On the other hand, there are in local government more perquisites, more opportunities for graft and a great deal more patronage.

The leaders those representing the great

The leaders, those representing the great parties in this country, did not approve of victous, corrupt local government, but they found it very useful in the mass delivery of votes in times of national elections. The party in the majority in a given city con-trolled the local government, and it was in-variably vicious, corrupt and rotten.

The election of 1933 was not a miracle. The change was due. The change might not have come at that time had it not been for the Seabury investigation. But it would not have been possible even then if there had not been a great change in the American electorate. There were a greater number possessing a higher standard of education, there was a reduction of illiteracy, more were reading the newspapers and magazines, more attending lectures and, above all, two things counted: the screen and the radio. The election of 1933 was not a miracle.

all, two things counted: the screen and the radio.

The radio has developed a new technique in campaigning. It used not to be so difficult—a little knowledge of acting, a big hall. They did not have amplifiers in those days; most of the people could not hear what you were saying. And you talked and talked and talked, and walked up and down the platform. And if you were a Democrat, you went up with an appeal to Jackson and Jefferson, and then applause. If you were a Republican, and you knew that you were not going good, and were on the wrong side of a question, Lincoln was always good. And now you cannot do that any more.

With the amplifier, everybody hears. You have to say something, and you can no longer depend upon climar. Of course, instead of the old kind of oratory, a radio voice is very useful, and some of us are not blessed with that.

What is city government? It is house-

What is city government? It is house-keeping on a large scale. People who divide on national issues can surely agree on the necessity of a municipal government administered on scientific lines, and honestly administered. That is why it is possible to have a fusion administration.

From the New York Herald Tribune,

OINCIDENT with the Government's for cast of the 1938 corn crop as of Aug. 1 placing probable production at 2,566,221,000 bushels, Secretary Wallace announced last week that the prospective supply would not be large enough to justify a referendum on the question of establishing quotas. Under the Farm Act of 1938, a referendu is required to determine whether a syste of marketing quotas shall be set up if the prospective supply exceeds the average do mestic and export demand, adjusted to current trends, by more than 17 per cent. Mr. Wallace estimates that the supply, including new corn and the carry-over as of Oct. 1 of 320,000,000 bushels, will amount, told, to 2,886,000,000 bushels. To require a referendum, he estimates, the supply would have had to reach a figure of 2,913,000,000

These figures would be more convincing if they had been announced several months, or even several weeks, ago. The interesting fact is, however, that earlier in the seaso the Agricultural Adjustment Administra estimated that a referendum would be required if the supply reached 1,773,000,000 bushels. Later, when it became apparent that this total would be exceeded, Mr. Wal-lace made a second estimate, in which he placed the supply necessary to make a referendum mandatory some 50,000,000 bushels higher, or, to be exact, 2,825,000,000 bu Now, with the current crop estima the estimated carry-over showing a total greater than this figure, Mr. Wall ne out with a second revision of the first estimate, this time moving the figure to

To say that Mr. Wallace has taken full advantage of the provision of the law which permits him to allow for "current trends" is to put it mildly. According to the Secretar of Agriculture, commercial demand for cora will be 25,000,000 bushels higher than the average of the last 10 years, and he adds the rather astounding estimate that exports will jump from a 9,000,000-bushel average for the last 10 years to 120,000,000 this year! C. Carlotte M. I.

What he omits to say-and what is much more to the point—is that the A A A has been hoping that it would be able, at all costs, to avoid a referendum vote this year. For there is a strong probability that such a year would be uncleased. a vote would be unfavorable. And it would have been extremely embarrassing to Ma Wallace individually and to the administration had an unfavorable vote on the referendum proposition been delivered on the end of the fall elections.

Here is a perfect example of the weakness of such proposals as the ever-normal gra-ary. They work perfectly in the economic laboratory. But in a world where decisions have to be made by individuals—and par-ticularly where the individuals are politicals—they are doomed at the outset. In such a world there can be no such thing as Mr. Wallace has just demonstrated so beartifully, as a decision conceived in sound corrections.

Gueen came to Paris in the third week of July, information had begun to seep through from Gerbeyn that military preparations were being hastened and intensified with exceptional energy.

It was known that the conscription of labor had been established by decree and that workers were being drafted from Austria and from various parts of Germany in order to construct by forced labor at high pressure a deep fortified gone, known as the Siegfried Line, facing the French frontier. This report is credible because it seems fairly well established that after the check of May 21, in which Hitler showed himself to be prudent, there remained a war party among the Nazis which has argued that the allies were bluffing and that it would have been safe to pro-ceed against Czechoslovakia. What might be described as record crowd, but probably won't seem like a handful in another week, gathered around the square fun. And to add to the general thought the tourists from Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma were natives, and the natives thought the tourists were movie folks and asked them for jobs. Everyone said Tyrone Power and Marjorie Weaver would not arrive for several days but some persons are unconvinced that they aren't hiding out over at the "Sleep Inn" and might walk into the drug store any minute?

Anyone in a pair of slacks and sport shirt is sure to be asked for a job. "My name is Shinn," said a man to a gentleman from a camera swung around his neck, "and I own that little dump job over there. I'm just a poor man, trying to get along, and I sure uld like to get work with you

But Pineville has civic pride. The old red brick building it watered by whirling spray and protected by "Keep Off the Grass" sign. The oidding is strong for the chairs on Sheriff Bone's front porch during the filming of the picture. Over at the drug store, which was doing a booming soft drink business, a young lady thought Jesse himself (not a moving picture) had arrived when a muchman in overalls and a slouch hat reeled in and, taking hold of her bobbed hair and giving it a good stout yank, said: "How're you doin', kid?" From a peaceful little town where nothing ever happened, Pineville has suddenly become a

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Rallying power wilted as traders lost interest in the stock market today and deshings slowed almost to a standstill. Early gains running to more than 2 points in outstanding shares, making an extension of the week's slow rally from the recent decline, were mostly erased when the buying played out.

Despite the tapering of the stock market recovery, financial circles seemed to get satisfaction from the passing of the latest spell of nervousness over European affairs.

Commodity traders, especially, noted foreign exchange rates were relatively stable in terms of the dollar after the sharp decline of the British pound in the first two weeks of August. The London price of gold was marked down sharply as private demand for the metal there decreased.

NO WOMAN ON earth has as much freedom and independence as the modern wife and mother. She has no boss. She can make her own schedule of time and work. If she has a system—and she's a fool if she hasn't—she can have time off for recreation without neglecting her children or home. Then why should she complain to her husband about how tired she is, and how the children have worried her all day, and how she is working her fingers to the bone, and giving the best part of her life to him in exchange for a life of drudgery?

After all, the object of your longing may be lovely, but if she talks about being too sophisticated for this or that. the not only is childishly unsophisticated, but probably suffers from a bad case of conceit. I should imagine she would prove rather insufferable to be around much. Find some girl who is sweet and not sophisticated, and probably by the time school starts again you will wonder why you were so upset over the other.

Dear Martha Carr:

WHEN MY BROTHER was married he and his bride invited 60 ruests, 59 the bride's friends and relatives and the other my mother. My sister was bridesmaid. When they called for her before the wedding my brother said he was sorry he could not invite the rest of his family, but there was not enough room. They invited us to spend the evening with them a month after the wedding, but we declined, and never se them except when they come to use the phone. Should we have accepted the invitation to visit and have forgotten the rudeness, or were we justified?

What do you think of a husband kissing his wife in public?

I think you were justified in declining the invitation, for certainly they were guilty of discourtesy if they had that many guests, yet could not find room for all the members of the groom's immediate family. However, I do think you might have accepted it, for after all, if the bride did see fit to snub you, which is what it amounted to, you would show yourself the more generous, the "bigger" person, by not retaliating. Naturally, under the circumstances you feel coolness toward them, yet perhaps it was not all your brother's fault, and you are punishing him by not being friendly.

In this day and age when it seems the thing for married couples in public to act as if they are barely acquainted, it seems to me rather a nice gesture to see a husband kiss his wife. Possibly strict rules of etiquette would forbid it, and of course, there is such a thing as overdoing it, but after all, what harm can it do?

"My wife was South and I was North. South dealt and bid one diamond. West passed. I looked at my miserable hand and decided to keep the bidding open one round, thinking my singleton spade and club ace furnished enough help to warrant the bid. Especially if South's outside honor cards hap be hearts, we might reach pened to be hearts, we might reach game in that suit. When she game in that suit. When she jumped to three diamonds, I figured she had a power house and was forcing me to keep the bidding open until we reached game, so I bid clubs to show my ace. She then went to game in diamonds, was doubled and, when I spread my cards, nearly knocked the table over, reaching for my throat.
"She contended that I should not have mentioned my hearts with a jack high suit, and that the bid jack high suit, and that the bid should have been dropped at the one level. I answered that my bid wasn't as bad as her jump in dia-monds, that she forced me to keep the bidding open on a weak hand which I would have dropped at the two level had she merely rebid her diamonds. Anyway, she went down three tricks, which was too many the way the cards lay. Please tell us who was to blame,-F. M. T.

This is just another case of the poor, suffering man being pushed around by a bullying wife! Natu-rally, I don't expect my decision to have the slightest effect on the lady in the case, but out of sympathy and loyalty I must, in this case, stand up for my sex.

The one heart response was unquestionably proper! North could show his six-card major suit with-out raising the bidding level, and it would have been horrible bridge, as well as rank cowardice, for him to have failed to do so. South, with a void in partner's response, chose her rebid very unwisely. In the first place, South had nothing like the honor strength required for a jump rebid even in the original suit and, in the second place, the minimum requirements (four to four and one-half honor tricks with a strong six-card suit) must be in-A simple two diamonds was the correct rebid. Of course, in fairness I must point out that North was wrong to regard the three diamond rebid as an absolute force. Conventionally, it is only a strong urge. However, North would have been justified in rebidding the hearts, assuming (although mistak-enly) that South either had a heart fit or a very powerful hand. The four club bid actually made by

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE.

HE little dentist greeted Camilla with a kiss on the forehead. His manner was unreproachful for the weeks which had intervened since the night he had asked her to marry him, but Camilla realized it was her own fault.

She didn't want to marry Wally. Had no desire to bed to any man since she could not have the one she loved, but she did need Wallace Fisher as a friend. He was penurious and unromantic but he was honorable and kind. A much safer companion than Quen tin Peters or any of the men from Jean's crowd.

SYNOPSIS:

CAMILLA WOOD iell in love with CHRISTOPHER CLARE, an executive in her firm, while abe was on an overnight business trip to St. Louis. She is trilled when he is transferred to her home shop, but is disappointed when he reminds her of the company rule that executives and department heads may have no social relations. Camilla tries to forget him by having dates with WALLACE FISHER, her former boy friend and QUENTIN PETERS, a lady-killer, whom she meets through PAUL BENTON, her divorced siter Jean's current escort, but she does not succeed. Chris reveals to Camilla that he is engaged to CLAUDIA PIERCE, the boss daughter, and although Camilla wants to quit her job, she dare not financially because the sanitarium wires that her mether is worse. THRILLS await the needlewoman who tries her skill on this filet crochet. She can make a chair or buffet set—scarf ends of the larger piece—and a pillow top to match! Shell stitch (easy to do) gives the quaint figures depth— and open mesh sets them off effec-tively. Pattern 1819 contains charts and directions for making the set;

Dropping Dumplings
If you have difficulty having the dumplings stick to your spoon when you are trying to drop them as quickly as possible into the boiling broth, have a bowl of ice water alongside of the stove and dip your spoon quickly into it before put-ting it into the dumpling mixture. They will drop from the spoon quit easily.

Posched Eggs

(If you have an invalid in the home to whom you frequently serve poached eggs, by all means purchase one of the small aluminum egg poachers that poaches either one or two eggs at a time. They come out absolutely perfect and uniform and are so much more tempting to the appetite.

just a little extra trouble. Careful planning of the leftovers results in many interesting dishes that turn out to be family favorites. There always are interesting items concerning leftovers in the newspapers and periodicals.

Braised Vegetables
Three tablespoons butter, two sups cooked carrots, one cup cooked peas, one cup cooked turnips, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one-half-teaspoon salt. Melt butter in a pan, add remaining ingredients and cook until well mixed and lightly browned. Arrange around balls of

Do not be ashamed to plan carefully and closely. It is necessary in these trying times. Dropping Dumplings
If you have difficulty having the dumplings stick to your spoon when you are trying to drop them as quickly as possible into the boiling broth, have a bowl of ice water allowed the stays and din your alongside of the stove and dip your spoon quickly into it before put-ting it into the dumpling mixture. They will drop from the spoon quit easily.

Posched Eggs

If you have an invalid in the home to whom you frequently serve posched eggs, by all means purchase one of the small aluminum egg poschers that posches either one or two eggs at a time. They come out absolutely perfect and uniform and are so much more tempting to the appetite.

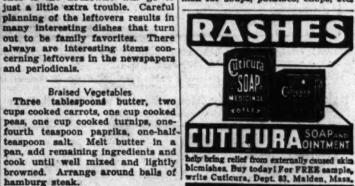

Do not be ashamed to plan carefully and closely. It is necessary its best. Chop the parsley very may be made into just as attrac-
